

Diocese of Gloucester LIFE community

- Are you aged between 18-30 and passionate about your faith?
- Do you feel called to Christian ministry, but don't know what type or where to start?
- Would you consider an internship and living in a small community, exploring and sharing with others in prayer, discipleship and ministry?

If so, then we might have something you would be interested in!

The Diocese of Gloucester is looking to offer an exciting and fulfilling internship experience for up to six young people (18-30) who believe God might be calling them to Christian ministry.

During the placement the scheme would provide an opportunity for interns to experience ministry in a variety of placements and would aim to equip people for a life of service to God. You would also be a member of the foundation year of the West of England Ministerial Training Course, allowing you to grow in your understanding of the Bible and of your faith.

We would offer accommodation and life in a community, with up to three people living together, with prayer at its heart. Vocational guidance and support will be provided by an experienced diocesan team.

If this sounds something that you would like to explore further, please contact Kathryn Warner on kwamer@glosdioc.org.uk before 5 February 2018.
